

Thank you for expressing interest in The Links at Stono Ferry for the site of your Golf Outing. Voted 2011 South Carolina Golf Course of the Year, 2003 Charleston Area Golf Course of the Year, 2006 Hole #14 Lowcountry Dream 18 by Links Magazine, 2006 Top 100 Courses to Play in the Carolinas by Golf Styles Magazine, host of the 2006 NCAA Men's Southern Conference Golf Championship, and host of the 2008 NCAA Women's Southern Conference Golf Championship. The accolades continue to pile up for the most exciting golf course in the Charleston area. Set amidst centuries-old live oaks and along the banks of the Intracoastal Waterway, The Links at Stono Ferry provides a golf experience unlike any other. You owe it to yourself to take on this historical golf course.

In 1779, the Revolutionary Battle at Stono Ferry was fought on these grounds. The battle wages on today, except this time it is over 18 of Charleston's greatest golf holes. If you love Charleston's Lowcountry charm, you will absolutely love a day spent at Stono Ferry. From the moment you arrive, the attention to detail is evident. Enjoy a round that takes you along Charleston's Intracoastal waters and finishes with the ever-exciting island green 18th hole. After your round, enjoy your favorite cocktail and a great meal prepared by The Stono Grill while relaxing under a canopy of live oaks. With its challenging layout, affordable pricing, and dedicated staff, The Links at Stono Ferry can promise you a premier tournament facility in the Charleston area.
